

WHEREAS, the first clause runs across two printed lines and must therefore stay a single paragraph in the emitted body; and

WHEREAS, the second clause is a separate paragraph and must be separated from the first by a blank line in the emitted body; and

WHEREAS, the third clause also runs to two printed lines so the page has enough gaps for a median to mean something; and

WHEREAS, the fourth clause is here for the same reason and to keep the within-paragraph gap the commonest gap on the page; and

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby ordered as set forth below.